UPDATE ON ST HELENA WATER LEVELS

RESERVOIR LEVELS STEADILY INCREASING

Heavy rain showers over the weekend and early this week have been greatly welcomed, with reservoir percentage levels steadily increasing over the past two weeks.

As indicated in the graph below, reservoir percentage levels have today reached a peak of 14%. This is good news, but until reservoir levels reach 50%, we remain in a critical situation.

CEO of Connect Saint Helena Ltd Barry Hubbard said:

“We still need a lot more rain to reach the 50% target and we therefore continue to urge Island residents to remain vigilant in their water use and saving water - cutting down our use will help us reach our target reservoir capacity.”

Every drop counts, every action counts - please do your bit!
